

The FCC is way out of line interfering with the NJ Do Not Call List regulations. It should serve as the standard for all states. Leave us and our privacy intact - especically in our homes. There is absolutely no reason for marketers to reach out to us about anything. With newspapers, commercials, news Ads on buses, bus stops, parking meters, unsolicited flyers on cars, and in the mail and inserts in newspapers they already have too much unsolicited access to the american public. They especially should not be able to block their numbers when they call either. Additionally, in the age of identity theft, fraud and abuse, you never know who is genuine and who is not when they approach you unsolicited. This is especially and issue for seniors. Shame on you.
